What is Serenity House?

The Serenity House is an end-of-life comfort care home.

A comfort care home is a community-based model of non-medical residential end-of-life care. Two private rooms allow residents to receive individualized care and attention during the final phase of life.

Family-modeled care...

is provided free-of-charge by staff and volunteers from the community who tend to the needs of residents and become a kind of “surrogate family”. Training and support is provided to volunteers by a qualified interdisciplinary team that is experienced in end-of-life care. All residents receive professional physical, emotional and spiritual support through their local hospice agency.

How Can I Help?

Our volunteers help in many different ways. Spending time with the residents may not seem like much, but it actually is! You can make a huge difference by sharing in camaraderie with individuals that need fellowship and peace in their final days.

“I get much more out of this experience than I feel I give. Serenity House is a true asset on our community...”
– Serenity House Volunteer

Our promise...

is to provide dignity in an atmosphere of care and unconditional love through those last precious days of life. The support of the house extends to embrace the family and friends of the residents we serve.

Some ways you can make a difference include...

- Resident Care
- Grocery Pick-up
- Housekeeping
- Gardening
- Maintenance
- Public Relations

- Office/Clerical
